

Privacy Policy

PMAC-AMPC is committed to providing protection for member or user information that we collect from individuals in the course of our business. We collect only that personal information that we need to facilitate our activities, and this information is secured from any external examination or use except where specifically identified at the time the information is being collected.

Any information collected by PMAC-AMPC will be used only for the stated purpose. Your consent will be requested when it is anticipated that the information, whether personal or professional, will be used in such areas as surveys, questionnaires, and assessments.

PMAC-AMPC will not give, sell or otherwise share your personal or professional information with any individual, organization or company without your permission, except where specifically required by law to provide specific or general information. For example, on the PMAC-AMPC membership application, you have the option to select items that will be listed in the PMAC-AMPC membership directory, and which items may be shared with PMAC-AMPC advertisers or service providers.

In situations on our site where you volunteer additional information for an industry study or database, such as for our Competence model, your personal data will not be associated with the other collected data.

For additional questions regarding the privacy and confidentiality of personal information, please contact us at membership@pmac-ampc.ca